Objectives and investment strategy

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide capital growth in excess of the MSCI Europe (Net TR) index after fees have been deducted over a three to five year period^{Note} by investing in equity and equity related securities of European companies which meet the investment manager's sustainability criteria.

^{Note} For clarification purpose, this means to exceed a medium to long term return of the stated index after fees have been deducted. The three to five year period is considered as a medium to long term period, and is the period over which an investor should assess the fund's performance.

Investment Policy

The fund is actively managed and invests at least two-thirds of its assets in equity and equity related securities of European companies which meet the investment manager's sustainability criteria.

The fund maintains a higher overall sustainability score than MSCI Europe (Net TR) index, based on the investment manager's sustainability rating system. More details on the investment process used to achieve this can be found in the "Sustainability Criteria" section below.

The investment manager ensures that at least 90% of companies in the fund's portfolio are rated against the sustainability criteria. As a result of the application of sustainability criteria, at least 20% of the fund's potential investment universe is excluded from the selection of investments. This universe is comprised of equity and equity related securities of European companies.

The fund does not directly invest in certain activities, industries or groups of issuers which generate revenue above the respective limits as prescribed by the investment manager from time to time, including but not limited to from tobacco and controversial weapons. The respective limits and exclusion list may be updated from time to time. For further information, including the list of all excluded activities, please refer to the fund's webpage¹.

The fund invests in companies that have good governance practices, as determined by the investment manager's sustainability rating criteria (please see the "Sustainability Criteria" section below for more details).

The investment manager may also engage with companies held by the fund to challenge identified areas of weakness on sustainability issues. More details on the investment manager's approach to sustainability and its engagement with companies are available on the website².

The fund may also invest up to one-third of its assets directly or indirectly in other securities (including other asset classes), countries, regions, industries or currencies, investment funds, warrants and money market investments, and hold cash (subject to the restrictions provided in Appendix I of the Prospectus).

The fund is not subject to any limitation on the portion of its net asset value that may be invested in any country in Europe or sector.

The fund is not subject to any limitation on the market capitalisation of the companies that it may invest in.

Under exceptional circumstances (e.g. market crash or major crisis), the fund may be invested temporarily up to 100% of its net asset value in liquid assets such as bank deposits, certificates of deposit, commercial paper and treasury bills for cash flow management.

The fund may use derivatives with the aim of achieving investment gains, reducing risk or managing the fund more efficiently.

Sustainability Criteria

The investment manager applies sustainability criteria when selecting investments for the fund.

Companies in the investment universe are assessed on their governance, environmental and social profile, across a range of factors. This analysis is supported by quantitative analysis gained from Schroders' proprietary sustainability tools such as SustainEx and CONTEXT. The investment manager assesses a company's environment and social impact, as well as governance practices, using proprietary sustainability tools such as SustainEx and CONTEXT. In addition, the investment manager also performs its own research and analysis before deciding whether a company is eligible for inclusion in the fund, based on its overall sustainability profile. Proprietary sustainability tools will be key inputs to measure how companies in the portfolio are meeting the sustainability credentials outlined above. The fund invests in a concentrated portfolio of sustainable businesses that the team determine to be mis-priced relative to their long term potential. The investment team of the investment manager combine their experience and industry specific knowledge to assess management quality, governance structure and the environment impact of companies. Schroders' proprietary sustainability tools aid the investment team to integrate a model that assesses the relationships with key stakeholders, including regulators, customers, suppliers, employees, and local communities. The materiality of such factors differs by industry. However, Schroders' process allows the fund to rank companies against industry peers based on their behaviours towards key stakeholders. The fund also measure in absolute terms the extent of a company's unrealised net impact on society from its activities. The portfolio is constructed to ensure diversification across style and market capitalisation, whilst delivering a superior aggregate sustainability profile relative to benchmark, as determined by SustainEx.

The sources of information used to perform the analysis include information provided by the companies, such as company sustainability reports and other relevant company material, as well as Schroders' proprietary sustainability tools such as SustainEx and CONTEXT and third-party data.

Benchmark

The fund's performance should be assessed against its target benchmark being to exceed the MSCI Europe (Net TR) index ("Target Benchmark") and compared against the Morningstar Europe Large Cap Blend Equity Category ("Comparator Benchmark"). The fund's investment universe is expected to overlap to a limited extent with the components of the Target Benchmark. The Comparator Benchmark is only included for performance comparison purposes and does not determine how the investment manager invests the fund's assets. The investment manager invests on a discretionary basis and there are no restrictions on the extent to which the fund's portfolio and performance may deviate from the Target Benchmark. The benchmark(s) does/do not take into account the environmental and social characteristics or sustainable objective (as relevant) of the fund.

Use of derivatives / investment in derivatives

The fund's net derivative exposure may be up to 50% of the fund's net asset value.

What are the key risks?

Investment involves risk. Please refer to the offering document for details including the risk factors.

1. General investment risk

The fund's investment portfolio may fall in value due to any of the key risk factors below and therefore your investment in the fund may suffer losses. There is no guarantee of the repayment of principal.

2. Equity investment risk

Investment in equity securities is subject to the risk that the market value of the stocks may go down as well as up due to numerous factors such as changes in investment sentiment, political environment, economic environment, issuer-specific factors, regional or global economic instability, currency and interest rate fluctuations. If the market value of the stocks go down the net asset value of the fund may be adversely affected.

3. Risks relating to sustainable investment approach

- Concentration risk: The fund follows a sustainable investment approach, which may cause it to be overweight and/or underweight in certain sectors and thus perform differently than funds that have a similar objective but which do not incorporate sustainability investment criteria when selecting securities. The value of the fund will be more volatile than that of a fund having a more diverse portfolio of investments.
- Subjective judgment in investment selection: In pursuing the sustainable investment approach, the investment manager integrates certain environmental and social sustainability themes into the investment selection process, which involves analysis of potential investment based on certain "sustainability factors". Such assessment by the investment manager is subjective in nature and therefore it is possible that the investment manager may have a different interpretation of what is sustainable compared to another manager which may lead to the fund investing in certain opportunities or foregoing investment opportunities when it might otherwise be advantageous to do so and/or selling securities due to their sustainable characteristics when it might be disadvantaged to do so.
- Exclusion risk: The use of exclusions may affect the Fund's investment performance and, as such, the Fund may perform differently compared to similar funds that do not use such criteria. Environmental and social exclusion criteria used in the fund's investment strategy may result in the fund foregoing opportunities to buy certain securities when it might otherwise be advantageous to do so, and/or selling securities due to their environmental and social characteristics when it might be disadvantageous to do so. As such, the application of exclusion criteria may restrict the ability of the fund to acquire or dispose of its investments at a price and time that it wishes to do so, and may therefore result in a loss to the fund.
- Reliance on corporate data or third-party information: When assessing a potential investment based on the fund's sustainability criteria, the investment manager is dependent upon information and data from the security issuer and/or third-parties (which may include providers for research, reports, exclusions, ratings and/or analysis such as index providers and consultants). Such information or data may be incomplete, inaccurate or inconsistent. As a result, there is a risk that the investment manager may make an assessment of a security or issuers based on incorrect information. The lack of a standardized taxonomy may also affect the investment manager's ability to measure and assess the environment and social impact of a potential investment.
- Change in nature of investments: The securities held by the fund may be subject to style drift which no longer meet the fund's sustainability criteria after its investments. The investment manager may have to sell such security held by the fund at a disadvantageous price. This may lead to a fall in the value of the fund.

4. Risk of investment in Europe

The fund may invest in securities which may include a substantial investment in European securities. In light of the current fiscal conditions and concerns on sovereign debt risk of certain European countries or certain countries within the Eurozone, the fund's investment in the region may be subject to an increased amount of volatility, liquidity, price, default and currency risk should there be any adverse credit events, such as credit downgrade of a sovereign or exit of EU members from the Eurozone, in the European region. Notwithstanding the governments of the European countries have adopted measures to address these problems, it is possible that these measures may not work and any adverse events may adversely affect the value of the fund's investment in European securities. If these adverse economic or financial events in Europe continue, they could have additional unfavourable effects on the economies and financial markets of other parts of the world thereby affecting the value of the fund's investment.

5. Concentrated geographical locations

The fund investing in concentrated geographical locations may be subject to a higher level of risks and may be more volatile comparing to a fund investing in a more diversified portfolio/strategy. The value of the fund may be more susceptible to adverse economic, political, policy, foreign exchange, liquidity, tax, legal or regulatory event affecting the relevant geographical locations.

6. Smaller companies risk

Fund invests in smaller companies may fluctuate in value more than other funds and may be more vulnerable to adverse economic developments than those in larger companies. During periods where markets are falling, securities of smaller companies may become less liquid and experience short-term price volatility and wide spreads between dealing prices.

7. Derivatives

Derivative exposure may lead to a high risk of significant capital loss. Risks associated with derivatives include credit risk and counterparty risk, liquidity risk, valuation risk, volatility risk, over-the-counter transaction risks and hedging risk. The leverage element/component of derivatives can result in a loss significantly greater than the amount invested in the derivatives by the fund.

8. Risks relating to distributions

- For distribution share classes with a general dividend policy, expenses will be paid out of capital rather than out of gross income. The amount of distributable income therefore increases and the amount so increased may be considered to be dividend paid out of capital; capital growth will be reduced and in periods of low growth capital erosion may occur.
- You should note that in the circumstances where the payment of distributions are paid out of capital, this represents and amounts to a return or withdrawal of part of the amount you originally invested or capital gains attributable to that and may result in an immediate decrease in the net asset value per share.
- The distribution amount and net asset value of the currency hedged share class may be adversely affected by differences in the interest rates of the reference currency of the currency hedged share classes and the fund's base currency, resulting in an increase in the amount of distribution that is paid out of capital and hence a greater erosion of capital than other non-currency hedged share classes.

9. Currency risks

Assets and share classes may be denominated in currencies other than EUR and some may not be freely convertible. The net asset value of the fund may be adversely affected by changes in foreign exchange rates and exchange rate controls of the currencies in which securities are held, the reference currencies of the share classes and the EUR. This exposes all share classes of the fund to exchange rate fluctuations and currency risk. It may not be practicable or possible to hedge against such foreign exchange/currency risk exposure.

10. Risks relating to hedging and the hedged classes

- The aim of currency hedged share class is to provide you with the performance returns of the fund's investments by reducing the effects of exchange rate fluctuations between the share class currency and the fund's base currency. However there is no assurance that the hedging strategies employed will be effective.
- There can also be no assurance that the currency hedging employed will fully eliminate the currency exposure to the reference currency.

How has the fund performed?

- Past performance information is not indicative of future performance. Investors may not get back the full amount invested.
- The computation basis of the performance is based on the calendar year end, NAV-To-NAV, with dividend reinvested.
- These figures show by how much the fund's Class A EUR Accumulation increased or decreased in value during the calendar year being shown. Performance data has been calculated in EUR including ongoing charges and excluding subscription fee and redemption fee you might have to pay.
- Where no past performance is shown there was insufficient data available in that year to provide performance.
- Target benchmark: MSCI Europe (Net TR) index
- Comparator benchmark: Morningstar Europe Large Cap Blend Equity Category
- Fund launch date: 2018
- Class A Acc EUR launch date: 2018
- The management company views the Class A EUR Accumulation, being the retail share class denominated in the base currency of the fund, as the most appropriate representative share class of the fund.
